Dear Parents/Guardians

Children make our life important. No greater joy unfolds but when we see our children growing – in years, in knowledge, in value systems becoming individuals and creating milestones. There are three of us – you parents, our children and we the teachers. The teamwork of all three is quintessential. The two – you and we - work for the third, our children with a common goal of shaping their personalities. However, when we talk of their poor academics and ill behavior, it is pointed particularly to the school and teachers. Is it fair enough? Let both the shareholders be accountable for their part of responsibility?

Dear Parents, the family is the fulcrum around which the child's life revolves. Let's not make the other a scapegoat but add a collaborative dimension to our efforts for our children and empower them to accomplish their aspirations. The best fuel to empower them is to give them your qualitative attention and time - attentive to their day's routine and activities and not just know of it. We also urge you to refrain from 'Sharenting' - sharing your news, images, and videos of your children on the social media. We acknowledge that you are proud of your children and want to talk about them to your friends and family but this trending has many serious implications. We appeal you to be mindful towards your parenting- bring them up consciously. Rub your mindfulness on to them so that they become conscious of their every action at school, home or anywhere.

Dear Parents to begin with, let's be mindful while packing the tiffin for our kids. The menu in the school diary is given with due consideration to the nutritional value, and your ease in preparing it. We request you to follow the tiffin schedule as given at the last in the school diary. You will soon experience the benefit of this. Now as the May Unit tests are approaching be mindful of your time for them and their time for their Academics.

This new session in the Platinum Jubilee year of BES calls for felicitations to all of us as we work together providing transformative education for fullness of life towards human fraternity. .

Dear Children

The new session has begun with a host of activities, holidays and pleasant weather. And you all are learning with fun.

We hear a lot about your skills in the digital world and your occupancy with it. Your inclination towards is appreciative but some of you have given up all other connects and are losing on touch with your real world – with the real joy of connecting in person with your friends, siblings and parents. Dear children, you all experience a lot of happiness in the company of people ie your friends at school. Then why deprive yourself of this happiness at home? Your parents, brothers, sisters are your friends at home. Seek help and support from them for setting your study schedule for the preparation of Unit I tests falling after ten days. Wishing you all, a joyful learning and preparation for the May Unit tests.
