Dear Parents/Guardians

Loving greetings and prayerful wishes for 2026 filled with good health, endless joy and peace. Every new year brings with it fresh beginnings, renewed hope, and an opportunity to reflect, realign, and move forward with purpose and positivity.

In this new year, let's draw inspiration from Pope Leo XIV's message for 2026 focused on building an "unarmed and disarming peace," urging people to disarm their hearts and reject violence, emphasizing peace as a God-given gift requiring personal responsibility. The Pope urges families and communities to nurture the values of empathy and unity, especially in a world facing challenges.

Dear parents, realigning your purpose for this year is invaluable—not only in shaping your children's academic journey but also in forming their character, conscience, and sense of social responsibility. Let's not merely desire these virtues in them, but truly bring about a lasting transformation. We fervently need to encourage honesty, discipline, and respect, foster kindness at home and guide children to be sensitive towards each other. When families model patience, discipline, and kindness, children naturally carry these values into their learning and exhibit them wherever they go beyond their homes and become models of your family's ethos.

We would also like to gently remind you that the final examinations are approaching. This is a crucial phase for your children. We request you to ensure a balanced study routine at home, monitoring their screen time, ensuring adequate nutrition and providing a calm and positive atmosphere. At school, all necessary revisions and practice sessions will be taken by the teachers well before the examinations.

Trusting in God's guidance as we nurture young minds and hearts, let us continue this journey of 2026 with trust, optimism and shared purpose—understanding that education is not merely the acquisition of knowledge, but the cultivation of wisdom, values and character.

With best wishes for a peaceful, productive, and successful year.

Dear Children

As you prepare to take your final examinations in the coming month, remember this simple thought: a garden does not bloom overnight. Daily care and patience bring flowers. In the same way, regular study—starting now—will build confidence and clarity. Whether you performed well earlier or feel you could have done better, this is your opportunity to give your best with sincerity and focus.

Let your previous efforts motivate you to work harder, revise wisely, and stay disciplined. These exams are not just a test of memory but a step towards growth. Look ahead with hope and excitement to the next class, new learnings, and new possibilities. Believe in yourself—you are capable of more than you think.

Wishing you a purposeful study period and fruitful results.
